Standard Features: The SW22 offers as standard equipment: adjustable straddle legs, free lift masts, deep cycle battery pack with built-in charger, battery discharge indicator and key lock. Controls Ergonomics: The controls of the SW22 are designed for intuitive operation through an articulated and swiveling handle. The controls are grouped together on the upper part of the handle, and include:- selection of 3 speeds forward and reverse, through two butterfly controls,- lifting of forks through push buttons, lowering through separate lever. Drive Motor: Powerful, reliable electric 0.6 kw motor with high overload capacity and remarkable efficiency. Speed selection: Three Speed Forward and reverse magnetic resistant controls. Brake: Adjustable electromagnetic disc brake provides reliable stopping with all loads. Braking is automatic in the vertical and horizontal position of the handle while the electric circuit on traction is isolated. Steering: Pedestrian operated steering handle. Handle can be swiveled through 90 degrees to either side and complies with safety regulations. Drive Wheel: Easily replaceable polyurethane tire, dia. 7.9". Load Wheels: Single polyurethane load wheels, 4" dia., 2" wide. Mast: The SW22 is available with a single mast of 62" lift or with telescopic masts of 112" or 128". Telescopic masts have Free Lift of 7" for easy access through doors or on trailers. The inner profiles of the mast and fork carriage are fitted with roller bearings. Lifting and lowering: Hydraulically through high pressure pump with 1.8 kw powerful motor. Straddle legs: Truck comes standard with oversized, adjustable straddle legs. Batteries / Charger: Deep cycle batteries 2 x 12 V - 100 Ah with built-in charger. Safety: The SW series has been engineered under modern safety aspects with such items as:- "deadman" braking system, which is activated upon release of the handle--safety reversing "belly button" switch on the handle, thus reducing the chances of injury--rubber skirt to protect the driver's feet--"high visibility" masts for better view on the load and forks. The ruggedly constructed drive train and hydraulic system allow transport of loads safely and easily. Maintenance: All electric and hydraulic components are easily accessible. Control fuses are immediately accessible and protected under the upper bonnet. All Multiton spare parts are available within a remarkable short delivery time. Quality: Multiton straddle stackers are designed to last for years of trouble free operation. MIG welded steel sheet frame. The robust forged forks are adjustable on the wide fork carriage. Thick steel sheet bumpers wrap around the drive unit. Every truck goes through a detailed quality inspection before being shipped. Accessories: - 48" Load Backrest - Load Centering Device - Tandem Load Roller - Snap-On Platform AKA: velocity fuse hose break valve flow limiter valve I was using my Multiton SM20 forklift today to move some projects around in my shop. I ended up maxing out my lift height and the ever so slow seepage leak it had turned into a drip per 10 second mess maker. I got everything yanked apart and found that the aluminum housing of the hydraulic fuse that is used to stop a mass decent if the hose were to blow was tightened too far onto the taper and cracked. I imagine my deadheading pushed it apart just a bit more as it is definitely not a new break. Multiton is no more so even though I have the parts manual and know that they call this a flow limiter with part number 07 350 912 I'm not finding any suppliers for it. The part itself has 1363-2 stamped into it but I'm not finding that part number on any hydraulic part pages either. Does anyone have any experience in specifying these things out that could give me a hand figuring out an equivalent. I know that I could run the lift without it but I'm not a big fan of un-safing equipment. Update. Found a logo on it too. Wv? Vvi? Wx? Second option. IRC, Multiton was bought out by Jungheinrich which is in turn distributed (owned?) by Mitsubishi. Maybe try contacting Wisconsin Lift Truck Corp (multiple state locations). Maybe they can locate an updated number for you as they are also a Jungheinrich dealer? Good luck. V/R Bogie To avoid these ads, REGISTER NOW! After further review, this isn't a hydraulic fuse. It is a fixed rate flow control with a 2gpm flow. That's a lot easier to spec out a replacement. The weird part number (from Vonberg) is because it has a NPTF on one end and an SAE on the other.
